

Reducing red tape allows more people to become citizens for free

When USCIS replaced a convoluted process with a simple form, about 73,000 more immigrants became citizens each year thanks to the federal fee waiver program for low-income applicants.

Making public benefits more user-friendly ensures that these programs reach the people who need them most.

Learn more

